Welcome Note

It is our pleasure to welcome you to the 6th Congress of the BrainStem Society (BSS). It has been a long journey since the first meeting in 1998, when many of us saw the Society as an opportunity to enrich and further cultivate our knowledge on the complex neurophysiology of the human brainstem. Our Society is small, like the brainstem in comparison to the whole nervous system. However, it gathers devoted members who love the beauty of understanding how the nervous system works. In our meetings, physiology comes typically hand by hand with the study of motor control and of pain disorders and we still have a lot of space to cover if we think that many important functions sit at the brainstem, including autonomic reactions, sleep and others.

We hope that you enjoy the congress as much as we have done in the past, and that the new Executive Board can maintain the old spirits embedded on new ideas and ways.
